Spring 2018 semester evaluation:

1.1.1 Analysis of Data and Plan for Continuous Improvement

2017-2018:

Upon reviewing the evaluation results, it is clear that both groups have identified the "three most important areas University Police should focus it's efforts on" as, in order:

1. Active Shooter Response and Proactive Policing;
2. Crime Prevention Programs and Resources; and,
3. Emergency Medical Responses.

The McNeese State University community made a clear statement in identifying their expectations of the McNeese State University Police Department. The McNeese State University Police Department already provides emergency medical services to the community, and the plan is to maintain those certifications. As for the active shooter response and the proactive crime prevention identifiers, officers are already scheduled for training in the area of 'Identity Theft'. We will continue to identify additional training opportunities and then share that knowledge with the McNeese State University community.
